Find the first workflow worth handing to an agent.	Put one useful agent workflow into your business.	Keep an existing workflow useful as your business changes.
• One 90-minute discovery session	• One workflow with up to two supported app integrations	• One existing workflow; monthly health and usage review
• Review of one business workflow and its tools	• Instructions, permissions, and review checkpoints	• Up to three hours of troubleshooting or small improvements
• Written workflow map, success measures, and implementation scope	• Pilot against agreed sample tasks with activity records	• Monthly activity and exception summary
• 30-minute findings walkthrough	• Documentation, one training session, and 14 days of defect fixes	• Support acknowledged within two business days

Your time is the goal

Saving one to two hours a day across six working days would return 6–12 hours a week. This is an illustration, not a promised result; we establish a baseline and measure your workflow.

How we begin

Free fit conversation → paid assessment → written implementation scope → pilot and handover.
